

Ancient Egypt

Sixth grade social studies classes did a collaborative project across teams as a culminating activity for our Ancient Egypt Unit. Jeanne Fayhee, Julie Sengenberger, Carolyn Lynch, Erik Jonathan, Lisa Rios, and Christine Snell designed this in order encourage individual student processing of the concepts and just plain have some fun. We invited parents to come to school and tour the museum's exhibits, listen to Egyptian music, and investigate an inter-active website on mummification. The parent and family turnout was huge, and we all decided the evening and the project were great successes!
